NEW CABINET STILL IN DIM DISTANCE IS PEKING VIEW

Chin Offers Resignation For Third Time And Absents Self

LEAVE EXTENDED

Anfuites Determined To Seize Complete Control Of Government

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Our Peking Correspondent)

Peking, May 28.—The political void still aches. We are still without a premier, or only half a premier, Chin Yung-peng's ten days' leave has been extended ten days. Admiral Sah Chen-ping has consented to act for ten days more—with limitations. Agreement on a permanent new cabinet is as far off now as it was a week ago.

Chin Yun-peng is as determined to relinquish his post as ever. Today, though only three of his second ten days' leave have expired, he sent to President Hsu another letter of resignation, his third. In it he expresses positive desire to be relieved. Admiral Sah also has given firm notice that he will not continue to serve after the second ten-day period was over.

ADMIRAL RELUCTANT

It was only with reluctance that Admiral Sah consented to fill the vacancy for these ten days. As everybody knows, Admiral Sah is not an Anfuite or anything remotely resembling one. He is not even a politician. He is not even dishonest. In fact, he is a conscientious worker of patriotic instincts.

He was moved to accept the acting premiership by appeals to his patriotism. It was put to him that if the government was left without a head there would be disorder, etc., and he was persuaded. That is his great weakness and always has been—the ease with which he can be led. Because of this quality efforts are being made to induce him to take the premiership permanently, if nobody else can be agreed on, but it is doubtful if they will succeed. Admiral Sah recognises that he would be used merely as a signboard and made to stand responsibility for the tricks of the Anfu gang.

CHOW SIDETRACKED

That anybody else can be agreed on is highly doubtful. Chow Shumou is pretty well out of the running. The Anfu Club will have none of him. He refused to accede to their terms, which are virtually a free hand. And they will not have him on any other conditions. Which is just as well. For Chow to take the premiership would be only to repeat the last six months with Chin in—a premier made powerless to do anything to any permanent good, and unwilling to do anything that will meet the wishes of those who really wield the power. And the government would be in state of paralysis.

I can see no outcome except a completely Anfu Cabinet headed by Tuan Chi-jui, under whom Little Hsu could work his sweet will as effectively as he did two years ago during the heyday of the Sino-Japanese Military Pact, the flood of loans, the sale of railways and all the grand carnival of gold and silver that made 1918 memorable.

There have been reports that Tuan would "come out," as they say, now. There have been reports that he will take the premiership, by force if force is necessary.

That seems a little less doubtful now than it did a few days ago. It is said now that Tuan will wait a little longer. This means that the non-Anfu Tuchuns, like Chang Tso-lin, Tsao K'un, and Li Shun will not submit. Also Wu Pei-fu's continued movements northward are a potent argument. Wu Pei-fu is taking his stand with the non-Anfu men.

TUCHUNS AN OBSTACLE

For the non-Anfu military men it is a matter of self-preservation. The great prize of complete Anfu control of the government would be the opportunity to replace recalcitrant Tuchuns. This is necessary if the Anfu Club is to carry its designs to complete success. Chang Tso-lin, Tsao Kun, Chao Ti and the Yangtsze group of Tuchuns have proved themselves uncomfortable obstacles in the last few months. Presumably if Tuan Chi-jui or somebody like him would become Premier one of the first acts of his Cabinet would be the supplanting of those Tuchuns.

It is easier to nominate than to replace, however. It is simple enough, for instance, to promulgate a mandate saying that Tuchun

ELKS HAVE PART IN OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

Members Of Order Given Task Of Decorating Graves Of Soldiers And Sailors

Decoration of the graves of American soldiers and sailors tomorrow in connection with the observance of Memorial Day at the Bubbling Well Cemetery will be in the hands of members of the Lodge of Elks residing in Shanghai. This is in accordance with a request that was submitted by members of the order represented by Mr. Shelly White to the American Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, which is in charge of the observance of the day.

A parade that will precede the exercises at the cemetery will start from the Race Course at 8:15 o'clock. In this will march American sailors and marines from U. S. naval craft in the harbor, the American Company of the S. V. C. and other units.

Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott, President of St. John's University, will deliver the Memorial Day address following opening of the services with prayer offered by Rev. E. C. Lobenstine of the China Continuation Committee.

After the delivery of the principal address the Benediction will be invoked by Rev. C. P. McRae. A detachment of the American Company of the S. V. C. will then fire a volley over the graves and the company's bugler will sound "Taps." According to plans announced it is intended to open the exercises at the Cemetery at 9:15 o'clock. Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General, is in charge of these exercises.

R. A. Burr Heads Harvard Club

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 20.—At a recent meeting of the Harvard Club of North China Mr. R. A. Burr, 1904, was elected president of the club and division chairman for China of the Harvard Endowment Fund Campaign in the place of Mr. Willing Spencer, 1899, who is leaving Peking for Lima, Peru, in a few days.

According to the latest reports from home the Harvard Endowment Fund has reached a grand total of almost $19,000,000, of which Harvard men in China have contributed about $20,000.

My Favorite For President

Straw votes are now being taken in America on the Presidential choice, so why not here?

First Choice . . . . . .

Second Choice . . . . . .

I am a Democrat—Republican
(Strike out one of the above)

My Name . . . . . .

My Address. . . . . .

(Note: If you wish to write a letter setting forth your views on the Presidential campaign we will be glad to print it.)

Governor Of Kansas, Elected While At War, Gets Vote For President

Although Herbert Hoover continued to lead the straw balloting conducted by THE CHINA PRESS as to preference of Americans in China among the presidential candidates in the United States the returns yesterday introduced a new name into the list of possibilities. It was that of Henry Allen, governor of Kansas, who was elected to his office, without solicitation, by the voters of his state while he was in France as an inspector for the Y. M. C. A. He was given a vote in the straw ballot yesterday by a Shanghai admirer.

Ladies showed more interest in the voting yesterday and ten ballots were cast by the fair sex.

Up to the present time the vote here stands:

FIRST CHOICE

	New Votes	Total
Hoover	26	65
Wood	15	49
Johnson	9	45
McAdoo	4	10
Hughes	5	7
Lodge	—	3
Allen	1	1

SECOND CHOICE

Hoover	19	56
Wood	12	50
Johnson	6	33
Lowden	3	8
Hughes	—	6
McAdoo	4	4
Taft	1	2
Bryan	—	1
Coolidge	—	1

It will be noted that Wood has not only edged Johnson out of second place in the race by a margin of four votes but that his lead as a second choice over the California governor has been materially increased.

German Mark In Remarkable Recovery

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 25.—A feature of the foreign exchange is the recovery of the German mark which is quoted today at 125 for the pound sterling against 230 at the beginning of May. The rise is attributed to the expectation of Germany obtaining an external loan or some re-arrangements affecting the indemnity. There are no indications of an improvement of internal conditions in Germany.

EIGHT SELECTED FROM 1700 FOR JOBS ARE HERE

Young Americans On Way To Far Eastern Positions On s.s. Ecuador

Eight young Americans, chosen from a total of 1700 applicants for Far Eastern positions with the Vacuum Oil Company are passing through Shanghai on the Pacific Mail steamship Ecuador, which docked early yesterday morning and leaves at noon today for Manila and Hongkong.

This double quartet of embryo captains of industry, now en route to managerial billets in China, Malaysia and the Philippine Islands, was picked from all walks of life by the home officers of the lubricating company, no one of them having had previous experience in this particular line of work, but each being chosen as a representative of a certain type of latterday American development.

ATHLETE IN PARTY

Heading the list, in point of avoirdupois, at least, is Harold A. ("Babe") White, champion discus-thrower of the world and all-American guard on the famous Syracuse University football team of 1916. White, who tips the beam at 286 pounds, has also been commissioned by the American Olympic Committee to choose a team of Filipino athletes who are to be sent to the trial meets in the United States, from which the American team for the Antwerp Olympiad will be selected.

Frank L. Hough, son of one of the founders of the American Baseball League and a prominent motion-picture director and impressario, is in the octette and will be field man for the company, with headquarters at Hongkong.

The other six men are as follows: Douglas Byrd, former advertising man; W. A. White and Roscoe Saunders, former New York City salesmen; W. C. Aberg, one-time lawyer; R. A. Burroughs, former architect and R. W. Berdeau, who began his business career as an hydraulic engineer.

VETERANS OF WAR

With the exception of Burroughs, Saunders and Hough, the young men are accompanied by their wives; and, with a single exception, each served his country during the late war and emerged with an army or navy commission.

The party was entertained at dinner last evening, at the Astor House by H. A. Hallam, director

VETERAN OF S.V.C. GIVES UP COMMAND AT PARADE

Major Trueman Is Paid Highest Tribute By Men In Service

COLONEL PLEASED

New Senior Officer Praises Local Organisation As He Reviews Units

Tribute to the 37 years service of Major T. E. Trueman, who, in that period, rose from a private to commandant of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps and to his wife to whose inspiration and encouragement were attributed much of his vim in building up the organisation, were outstanding features of the Parade at the Polo Grounds yesterday when the veteran officer surrendered command to Lieut. Col. R. Marr Johnson, C.M.G., D.S.O.

Major S. A. Ransom, commanding the infantry division, delivered a speech, on behalf of the Corps and expressing its regret over the retirement of the senior officer, at the conclusion of the Parade and presented to Major Trueman an illuminated address signed by the officers and non-commissioned officers of the Corps. He also announced that a copper plate, engraved with silver and representing each unit in the organisation had been ordered for the retiring commandant but that it had not yet, much to the disappointment of the members of the Corps, arrived in Shanghai. A similar fate had befallen a jeweled pendant which is to be presented to Mrs. Trueman.

MRS. TRUEMAN HONORED

"Words are inadequate to express the loyalty, respect and esteem held by members of the Corps for both Major and Mrs. Trueman," said Col. Ransom in the course of his speech which was filled with sentiments that touched the retiring officer deeply.

In his reply Major Trueman expressed his deepest gratification that the enthusiasm of Mrs. Trueman, particularly in the last five years, was recognised and acknowledging that there were many times when it had been her encouragement alone that had enabled him to carry on.

The speeches were greeted with cheers for the Major and his wife and the informal meeting, which took place before the clubhouse, adjourned only after the assembled Volunteers had sung with enthusiasm "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."

CREDIT DUE TO ALL

Major Trueman showed his appreciation of the co-operation that has been given him by the officers and men in the Corps when he told them that in spite of the kind words of Major Ransom he felt that no more credit was due to him than to any other member of the organisation. He said:

"All any of us has done has been our plain duty."

He expressed his appreciation of the "kindly conspiracy" that had been on foot to honor him and said that although it might be unmilitary he had to mention his suspicion that Lieut. Col. Johnson was involved in it.

MAKE GOOD SHOWING

The Parade was colorful and went through with a snap and precision that did great credit to the Corps. Colonel Johnson, in his speeches to the men and, later to the unit commanders, praised the organisation highly and expressed his pleasure at being placed in command of such a fine body of soldiers.

There was the usual march past with a staff representation of five

Throne Of Denmark Shaken By Strike

Queen of Denmark
INTERNATIONAL

The throne of Denmark was seriously shaken by the recent general strike in Copenhagen, which for a time threatened to become nationwide. Following the dismissal of the Sahle Ministry by King Christian mobs of workers roamed the streets shouting "Long live the Republic!" and "Down with the King!" Much of the loyalty to the Crown is due to the Queen, who by her charm of manner and her democratic bearing has won the admiration and respect of her subjects.

LEAGUE DESIGNS CLOSER CONTACT BETWEEN MEMBERS

International Conference Will Take Steps For Freedom Of Communications

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 25.—It is announced that an International conference has been convened by the League of Nations to meet before the end of the year in order to elaborate measures for guaranteeing freedom of communications and transport between individual members of the League, as covenanted. The conference will establish a permanent organisation of international communications for the co-ordination of the efforts of individual countries, which organisation is essential for the re-establishment of commercial exchanges and the economic restoration of the world.

DELAY CONFERENCE

London, May 25.—The Allied note, presented to the German Government suggesting the postponement of the Spa Conference to June 21 in view of the German elections, emphasises the undesirability of the conference being distracted or delayed by external preoccupations, as would happen if it were held at an earlier date.

MANDATE DOOMED

Washington, May 25.—President Wilson's message to Congress asking for authority to accept the mandate for Armenia has been referred to the Foreign Affairs Committees of both Houses.

The Republican leaders predict that the message will not return to the Senate, whose Foreign Affairs Committee have stated that they unanimously oppose acceptance of the Mandate.

DELIVERS LOCOMOTIVES

Berlin, May 26.—The Minister of Transport announces that the delivery of five thousand locomotives to the Entente, in accordance with the Peace Treaty, has been completed.

British And U.S. Gunboats To Check Yangtsze Bandits

British and American gunboats are going up the Yangtsze River to stop the outrages of soldier-bandits that have long held the banks of the river from Chungking down in defiance of all authorities.

In recent months the boldness of the outlaws has passed all bounds. While formerly their attentions were directed wholly to native junks, recently they have grown more and more aggressive and a report received here yesterday by the Robert Dollar Company tells that the company's steamer Robert Dollar II, which opened a new service up the river, had been boarded by a large band of brigands at Wanhsien while bound down and escaped only through the timely appearance of the American gunboat Palos, which was able to answer distress signals. The vessel was flying the American flag.

After the bandits had fled the steamer proceeded down the river but it did not dare to make stops to unload passengers and freight as the outlaws were in evidence everywhere along the banks. At Kweifu a fusillade was fired at the vessel from the shore, but as barricades had been raised none aboard was injured. The Robert Dollar II is now at Hankow for repairs to a cracked driving shart received in mounting the rapids.

It is understood that armed guards in future will travel aboard American and British vessels plying the upper river.

POLITICS IN U.S.

Both Parties Accused Of Angling For Votes In Campaign

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 24.—A deputation of responsible persons interested in the settlement of the Irish problem had an interview with the acting Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Walter Long, at the House of Commons today. They expressed belief in the Government's good intentions but asked for generous amendments to the Home Rule Bill by which fundamental unity would be more clearly asserted. The deputation expressed the opinion that the Irish parliament should include bi-cameral legislatures for both divisions of Ireland of which the Upper Houses of each should constitute a Council of Ireland, invested with wider unreserved powers, than at present provided. They suggested that the amount of the Irish contribution to the Imperial Government should be left to the Irish legislatures as in the Dominions. They also suggested other alterations whereby the status of Ireland would more closely resemble that of the Dominions.

IRISH SUGGEST PLURAL NAME

Finally they proposed that Great Britain and Ireland should henceforth be designated as the United Kingdoms, in the plural.

Mr. Long replying showed that the Government's task had been rendered more difficult through lack of criticism owing to the absence of the Nationalists and the withdrawal of the Labor members from the House of Commons.

Referring to the increase of crime in Ireland, Mr. Long said that Englishmen are liable to regard concessions to Irish opinion as yielding to the forces of outrage. He undertook to submit the deputation's proposals to the Cabinet.

POLITICAL ANGLE SEEN IN U.S. STAND

London, May 25.—The Times New York correspondent, referring to the letter addressed by Mr. Colby, secretary of state, to the chairman of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee, saying that "nothing connected with the foreign relations of the United States should deter the committee from any action it felt compelled to take regarding American recognition or the Irish Republic, says that it is merely an election maneuver.

"Both parties," adds the correspondent, "are angling for the Irish vote."

MISS TRUEMAN DRIVES

Miss Trueman, whose war record is well known here, was at the wheel of one of the motor cars on which a machine gun was mounted.

When the units had been formed for inspection on the Polo Grounds with Major Trueman and his aide, Lieut. S. B. Neill, at the fore of the line. Colonel Johnson rode onto the field and took his position at the reviewing stand. He was attended by Major L. E. Canning.

After the march past the Light Horse and Artillery passed in review at quick and double time. Then the hollow square was formed and the new commandant delivered his address to the organisation. When the units had been dismissed the officers were summoned to the center of the field and a second address was delivered by the Colonel. It was after he had concluded this talk that the presentation was made to Major and Mrs. Trueman.

Officers Elected By Department Of Woman's Club Here

The Mothers' Department of the American Woman's Club held a meeting on Wednesday at the Carlton Cafe and elected officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. W. G. Hiltner was elected chairman, Mrs. W. W. Lockwood vice Chairman, and Mrs. R. C. Bryan secretary-treasurer.

It was decided at the meeting to establish a question-suggestion box at the Club's Garden Party at the Columbia Country Club. Suggestions are to be given for the program for the year. The box will be on the club veranda.

To Mr. Allen G. Loehr Retiring U.S. Consul

Dinner At Shanghai Club Is Also Occasion Of Welcome For Mr. M. F. Perkins

Members of the American Consulate-General will be hosts this evening at a farewell dinner at the Shanghai Club to Mr. Allen G. Loehr, United States Vice-Consul who is retiring from the service at the end of this month. The function will also serve as a reception to Mr. Mahlon F. Perkins, who has recently returned from Changsha to be Executive Consul in Shanghai.

Mr. Perkins is well known to Shanghai residents, having served in American Consular service in Shanghai previous to his going to Changsha, where he was Consul-in-Charge. During Mr. Sammons' administration, Mr. Perkins was for some time Consul-in-Charge of the Shanghai Consulate-General. He was better known, however, as Senior Mixed Court Assessor.

On June 1, Mr. Loehr joins the firm of Fowler, Boyd, Leighton, and Dubois, Inc., New York, an import and export firm with offices at 14 Kiukiang Road. In his new position, Mr. Loehr will be engaged in making special trade investigations in China.

Mr. Loehr joined the Government service in 1915 as assistant to Mr. Julean Arnold, the U. S. Commercial Attache, and in 1916 he was temporarily attached to the Shanghai Consulate. He resigned in October, 1916, to accept a position as manager to the firm of Knapp and Baxter, Inc., N. Y. In 1918, he resigned this position for the purpose of offering his services to the U. S. Government but was appointed to Shanghai as Vice-Consul. In this capacity he handled all matters pertaining to enemy trade for the Consulate, and until his going home on leave in December last, Mr. Loehr was in charge of the shipping office. Upon his return he has been in the Passport Office.

'Y' Needs Magazines For Destroyers' Crews

The Navy branch of the Y.M.C.A. in Shanghai has sent out a call for reading matter to be distributed among the men of the destroyer division and three cruisers now at target practice off Chefoo.

There are over two thousand men on these vessels and since it will take a great many books, magazines and papers to supply the tars, the "Y" is calling upon all members of the American colony in Shanghai to send all their surplus reading material to the Y.M.C.A. headquarters on Avenue Edward VII. The men will be very grateful for such contributions.

RAISED BY NINGPO GUILD IN DRIVE

The membership and fund campaign conducted by the Ningpo Guild has just been concluded with most satisfactory results. The sum of $111,000—odd was raised, being about $11,000 more than the goal originally aimed at.

Plans are now on foot to organise a number of primary schools, a commercial school and an evening school for the Ningpo residents in Shanghai.

The new home of the association is moving rapidly toward completion. It is situated on Thibet and Lloyd Roads. It has five stories and is built entirely of reinforced concrete, consisting of an auditorium capable of seating over 600 people, a spacious dining room and other appropriate rooms. Lectures and social activities will be held in the building from time to time.

Japanese To Give Zemstvos Munitions For Vladivostok Use

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, May 27.—In view of the rumors which are in circulation that the counter-revolutionaries intend to make an attempt to occupy Vladivostok, the Zemstvo military authorities have petitioned the Japanese Commander for arms and ammunition. The Japanese have agreed to hand over 1,000 rifles and 40,000 rounds of ammunition.

General Kalmikoff's troops are still in possession of Spasskoe. The Zemstvos are despatching militia to disperse them.

Woman's Club Has Garden Fete Today

The American Woman's Club will hold its annual garden fete this afternoon at the Columbia Country Club, from four to seven. After the reception, tea will be served. There will be several selections given by the American Woman's chorus and plenty of time will be allowed for tennis and dancing.

A photograph is to be taken of the assembly, immediately after tea has been served on the balcony.

Firms Which Aid Overall Movement

Marysville, Cal., April 27.—Members of the Marysville Carpenters' Union, it was announced today, have voted to boycott business men who urge or permit their employes to participate in the movement to wear overalls as a means of reducing clothing costs.

The action was taken it was said, because the "movement tends to increase prices of overalls and makes their purchase prohibitive for mechanics and artisans."

Tablet Unveiled In Memory Of Officer

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 28.—A brass tablet in memory of the late Lieutenant-Colonel David Stephen Robertson was unveiled today in the chapel of the British Legation by Bishop Scott in the presence of the members of the Legation. The tablet bears the following inscription: "In loving memory of Lieut-Colonel David Stephen Robertson, Royal Scots Fusiliers, Military Attache at this Legation from 1912 to 1914 and 1916 to 1919. Died December 8, 1919, aged 45. "He loved chivalrie, truth and honor, freedom and courtesie, He was a perfect gentil knight.'"

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 22.—Numerous changes are announced in the Tsing Hua College faculty, many of the members intending to return to the United States either on furlough or in resignation from the faculty. Miss M. Isabel Liggett returns to America after nine years at Tsing Hua. She will be married to Mr. George Shriner of Harrisburg, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Brace return on furlough and for study at Columbia University. Mr. S. P. Jones, who has been teaching as substitute, returns to his position in Evanston, Ill. Mr. Danton will be exchange professor at New York University. Professor L. A. McLouth of New York University will take Mr. Danton's place at Tsing Hua. Mr. Heinz will teach at Boston University and study at Harvard, where he has been appointed Austin scholar. Professor Bruce of Boston will take Mr. Heinz's place at Tsing Hua. Miss Kelly will return on furlough for study. Mr. T. L. Yuan has been awarded a scholarship at Columbia.

Anti-Opium Association Holds Its Annual Meeting; Dr. C.T. Wang Is Speaker

China must re-enter the field of anti-opium activities to stamp out the curse in order to keep the country's part of the contract which she entered into with other nations of the world.

This is the gist of a stirring address delivered by Dr. C. T. Wang, China's peace delegate at Versailles, before the annual general meeting of the International Anti-opium Association held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening. Reports for the year's work were made by Messrs. Isaac Mason, English Secretary and Mr. Li Chi-fan, Chinese secretary. An executive committee of 20 was elected and it will meet Friday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock at the Chinese Red Cross Society, 26 Kiukiang Road, to elect the officers of the association.

DOCTOR WANG'S SPEECH

Dr. Wang's speech which was delivered in Chinese, follows in part:

"China must redouble its energy to rid herself of the opium curse. People with common sense are all aware of this.

"At the Peace Conference, we received messages from anti-opium organisations to bring up the question of its suppression at the sessions. Great Britain desired to take the lead in this matter and as our aims were the same, we were quite willing to let them assume the leadership.

"As we know in 1912, an Anti-opium convention was drafted at the Hague. Eleven countries signed and ratified the convention. Several did not sign, and one of them, Germany, refused to ratify it after having signed it.

"The Treaty of Peace with Germany provided that all nations represented at the Hague Convention whether having sanctioned the treaty or not shall observe its stipulations upon the signing of the present peace treaty."

The speaker then expressed regret over conditions in China which he found when he returned. Nearly in every case, the planter of the poppy is a soldier. Northern and Southern troops alike are offenders and the Central Government is absolutely helpless in punishing them.

Dr. Wang pointed out that the opium issue is just as important as the Shantung question as it involves the national honor of China. He asserted that all the strenuous efforts of the last dynasty and the Republic would be wasted if China does not exert every effort to put a final end to this course.

MR. MASON SPEAKS

Mr. Mason's speech was as follows:

"Our association was organised in January, 1919, during the days when the stocks of opium were being burned at Shanghai. It was realised that the destruction of a large amount of imported opium was by no means the end of the opium evil, but was only an incident in a stern conflict, and our association was born out of the enthusiasm of a large number of people who wished to see China delivered from the harmful effects of the wrongful use of opium and kindred drugs.

"The committee and officers appointed at the organisation meeting were empowered to draw up a constitution, which was done, and the same was made known publicly; members were enrolled and subscriptions and contributions received for the work of the association. Twelve meetings of the executive committee have been held, and much preliminary work has been done. The Government of China has been urged to adopt strong measures to suppress the growing of opium and the smuggling of opium, morphia etc. The Peace Conference at Paris was approached on the ground of the necessity of international action; the telegrams and letters sent to that Conference had encouraging results. Locally much useful information has been gathered during the past year, and one prosecution of a dealer in opium secured punishment. Several branches of the association have been started through the operations of the Shanghai branch.

PRAISE FOR OUTPORTS

"The Peking headquarters and the Tientsin branch have done excellent work, making us feel somewhat ashamed of our meagre achievements. We have given our cordial support to their operations and have rejoiced in all success of the common objective. A measure of co-operation has existed among the three main branches of the association, and it was at one time decided to join in securing a Chinese paid secretary to give his whole time to the national work of the association; such a secretary was engaged by our branch, it being thought that Peking and Tientsin would share the cost. It was found that there was some misunderstanding as to the financial arrangements for, and the local funds being insufficient, we had to discontinue the services of our paid secretary after only a few months' activities. It is now understood that Peking is considered the headquarters of the association. Shanghai and other places being branches.

INTEREST WIDESPREAD

"Our first foreign secretary was called suddenly away from Shanghai, and with the loss of the Chinese secretary just referred to, there was an unfortunate break in continuity, which was made still worse by the withdrawal, for various reasons, of several members of the committee. Other names were added, and the willingness of so many gentlemen to serve shows that the eradication of the opium evil is on the minds of many of the best friends of China.

"Our membership campaign has not been pushed as vigorously as it ought to have been, so the actual numbers enrolled have not thus far been large. It is to be hoped that steady work will be done in this direction, that our membership may become numerous enough to adequately represent the size and importance of Shanghai. The response to the appeal for financial support was very gratifying, and will doubtless continue to be so if we can show that we exist to do definite work towards the ends for which we organised.

"There is urgent need for the activities of our association, as it is well known that China is now drifting back to the sad condition, so far as the opium evil is concerned, in which she was some years ago, and from which she had heroically determined to free herself, with such a large measure of success. It is much to be desired that Shanghai will maintain an active and vigilant branch of the Anti-opium Association, and while at the moment we are faced with discouraging conditions, we must be ready to seize any favorable turn in the tide of events, or do our best to bring about such a turn, in the hope that China may soon be completely freed from the evils of opium and morphia from which she has suffered so severely."

The committee elected at the Wang, Mr. Y. C. Tong, Judge Charles E. Lobingier, Mr. Isaac Mason, Mr. C. C. Nieh, Mr. H. Y. Moh, the Rev. C. Devenport, Mr. J. W. Dovey, Mr. George A. Fitch, Mr. E. S. Little, Mr. Li Chi-fang, Mr. Chu Pao-san, Dr. H. C. Mei, Dr. F. C. Tong, Mr. S. S. Fung, Mr. Zee Vee-wei, Mr. H. C. Tam, Mr. F. F. Lin, Mr. T. W. Shen and Mr. J. Hsu.

Mrs. G. C. Reis, whose husband's business affairs in this settlement compelled him to sail away from her some three months ago after only 10 hours of marital bliss, remained on the Ecuador while Mrs. G. C. Proctor, from New York, was married to Major Edwin Webb Moore, U. S. A., stationed here, shortly after the steamship came to port.

Passengers on board the liner described the voyage as one of the liveliest and most pleasant trans-Pacific crossings in recent years, especially complimenting the service and attention of the ship's official personnel throughout the trip.

WILLYS-KNIGHT TOURING CAR
DRIVEN BY THE FAMOUS SLEEVE-VALVE MOTOR
Sleeve-valves mean: silence, speed, economy, increased power, a minimum of carbon deposit, flexibility and simplicity. These are advantages which no motorist should ignore.
The Willys-Knight car is a beautiful acquisition. There are no crudities of design to jar one's sensibilities; there are no false economies in its construction.
When you have bought the Willys-Knight, 40 H. P. Touring Car, you have acquired the acme of perfection in motor design; the culminating point at which experts have arrived and challenged the world.
The tonneau and front compartments are roomy and luxurious, the upholstery being hand-buffed leather. The long wheel-base and cantilever springs absorb all the shocks resultant from an uneven road.

NEW CABINET STILL IN DIM DISTANCE IS PEKING VIEW

Chang Tso-lin is relieved from office to await other appointment and will be succeeded by General So-and-so, a great Anfu light. But it would be a hardy bird that walked into the Yamen at Mukden and tried to assume office. He would want several regiments of men and some heavy guns, and he himself would want to be far in the rear, which, being a Chinese general of this year of grace, he certainly would be—in the rear, with three or four concubines and playing ma chiang.

FIGHT IS BREWING

In other words, when it comes to replacing Tuchuns, there may be a fight. And it is chiefly to avoid that unpleasant and unfamiliar extremity that the non-Anfu Tuchuns are now pledging loyalty so assiduously to Chin Yun-peng.

Nonetheless, I believe it to be a tenable opinion that the best eventuality would be a complete Anfu cabinet, with Tuan as premier. As I have said before, anything is better than the present stalemate. Furthermore, that would give a clean-cut issue. There is none now.

Out of a clean-cut issue something positive might come, and by some act of Providence it might be good. Yet again, if by some miracle there should be fighting between the Tuchuns somebody might be eliminated. And no matter who it was, that would be a boon. There would be everything to gain, nothing to lose.

King To Be Patron Of War Famine Fund

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—The King has consented to become patron of the Imperial War Famine Fund Committee, which includes the Prime Minister, Lord Birkenhead and leading representatives of the different political parties, churches and services and of the British Red Cross. The fund which is intended to co-ordinate and concentrate British effort for the relief "of one of the most terrible tragedies of history," will shortly be launched in every district of London and will be extended rapidly through the provinces and Dominions, so that it may become an impressive Imperial movement by the British people as a whole.

SIR ALEXANDER TULLOCH

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—The death is announced of Major-General Sir Alexander Tulloch, in his 82nd year.

General Tulloch had a distinguished record of service in many campaigns and in many countries. He served in the Crimea, 1855-56, India 1857-58, the China campaign, 1859-60 and the Egyptian campaign, 1882. He also served for the Intelligence Department with the Spanish army during the Carlist war in the Pyrenees, 1874.

For several years he was in charge of the Intelligence Department in Egypt, receiving brigade rank at Cairo, after which he was transferred to Australia where he held post of Major-General commanding the Victorian military forces and general military adviser to the Australian colonies.

After an interval of many years, General Tulloch returned to China in 1904, acting as Times correspondent in Manchuria.

SHANGHAI PLAYS ALL-STAR TEAM

Crack Line-Up To Be Chosen To Meet Batsmen At Race Course Today

The regular Shanghai ball team crosses bats with an All-Star team selected from the rest of Shanghai this afternoon at the Race Course grounds. The game starts at 3 p.m. On Sunday afternoon the Elcano nine will play the home team, at the same hour.

No answer having been received as yet to their wire inviting the Chicago University to play a series at Shanghai in June, the Baseball Committee was unable to make any definite statement as to when the Chicago nine would be here. It is very certain, however, to play in Shanghai as the terms stated were met and the only objection, that of their having to return home in July is now being adjusted.

"Dinny" Doyle on his way home was able to size the boys up and he reports that the team is well balanced possessing two good pitchers. Their spitball artist is a big righthander and they also have a corking good port side heaver. They will certainly cause the home gang to extend themselves in order to capture the series. Up to the present the home team's mettle has not really been tried. To date all the contests have been walkovers and as a result the players have not been getting on the job. No doubt interest will be re-awakened as soon as it is definitely known that the Chicago Varsity is coming.

School Boys Lose To Navy, 10 To 4

The Shanghai-American School played the Navy yesterday afternoon at the Race Course. If the S.A.S. nine had been as good as the their battery there would have been a different score. As it was the Navy won by a score of ten to four. On account of stage fright on the part of the school team the sailors collected a bunch of runs in the first part of the game and the schoolboys were unable to catch up.

The losers play St. John's next Monday afternoon at the College grounds.

Weeks And Co., Ltd. Annual Meeting

Messrs. Weeks and Company, Ltd., held their annual general meeting yesterday. Mr. R. H. Gaskin, presided and was supported by Major T. E. Trueman, Mr. R. McE. Dalgliesh, directors and Major A. W. Studd, secretary. The secretary having read the notice convening the meeting and the report of the auditors, the chairman spoke as follows:

Gentleman. It is now the hour for which this meeting was called, there is a quorum present, and I will ask the secretary to read the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report.

The report and accounts for the year end February 29, 1920, have been circulated to shareholders, and with your permission I will dispense with reading them now.

The year under review although in many respects better than the preceding five years of the war, has not been without its difficulties. Manufacturers in Europe and America are so conjested with orders, that great delays occur in obtaining delivery of our stocks, and added to this there is still the restricted shipping facilities, which makes it very difficult to keep up a steady supply of all commodities.

Considering these things we have been very well served from London, but we hope that the regularity of deliveries will improve. It is generally known I think, that manufacturers' prices for almost every commodity are still on the upward grade. Every mail brings advices of advances from 25 to 60 percent.

The volume of business passed through the books during the year under review, constitutes a record and our factory has been working at full pressure all the time. On the other hand, working expenses have increased considerably and are likely to go still higher.

The accounts set forth our position clearly, but I would like to refer to a few points.

The allowance for bad and doubtful debts is more than last year by $800, in addition to which the reserve under this head which appeared in the balance sheet for the past few years, has been taken out to cover an outstanding balance which we still have reason to believe may be recovered, but it was thought advisable to remove it from the accounts.

Our capital account remains the same because it has not been possible to issue new shares at par while silver investments are adversely affected by the prevailing high silver exchange.

The bank overdraft was higher on February 28 than last year, and since closing the accounts it has been considerably reduced; sundry creditors are less, and against these items we have a substantial increase in sundry debtors, while stocks remain practically the same. From the figures under these heads, it will be seen that our position has improved during the year.

The buildings have been maintained in good repair and the extensive additions and alterations referred to by your chairman last year, as being then in progress, have been completed during the year, and the ground floor of 32A Nanking Road now provides a very fine new showroom for our carpets, bedsteads and soft furnishing stocks. The cabinet department has also been extended and improved, giving more scope for model rooms and our display of pictures. The value of this extra space and re-arrangement has already become evident, and it will be productive of more business.

I am sure that you will agree with your directors in considering that the state of the company's affairs as set forth in the accounts, shows our business to be in a healthy and progressive condition. You will, I am sure, also endorse your directors' view as to the payment of a dividend. Although the balance at credit of profit and loss might be considered enough to justify the payment of more than eight percent your directors have always adopted the policy of paying a moderate dividend well within the profits earned for the year, and more especially while our overdraft with the bank stands at a high figure. By following this policy we are adding strength to our resources, which enables a continual growth to be maintained.

Before closing I would like to express on behalf of the shareholders our pleasure at having Major Studd back again with us, to carry on the secretarial duties.

During the year we have also added to our staff three gentlemen from home and one who joined us locally, all of whom served in the great war. In fact our instructions for the engagement of assistants at home stipulates that preference will be given to men who have served.

In conclusion, I would add that the directors, and the shareholders present, wish to express their appreciation of the loyal service of the staff, who have contributed to the satisfactory result of the year's working, and later on I will have pleasure in putting this into more tangible form by recommending the payment of a bonus.

I will now propose the first resolution, "That the report and accounts as presented be passed." Before putting the resolution to the meeting, I shall be glad to answer any questions to the best of my ability.

No questions being asked, the first resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Dalgliesh as well as the following resolutions were passed:

"That the available balance be disposed of as follows:

Pay a dividend at the rate of eight percent for the year	$ 34,915.20
Write off buildings	16,000.000
Place to reserve	10,000.00
Carry forward to new account	19,468.28
	$80,383.48

Proposed by Mr. R. H. Gaskin, seconded by Mr. R. McE. Dalgliesh.

"That Mr. R. H. Gaskin be re-elected a director. Proposed by Mr. A. K. Craddock, seconded by Rev. C. N. Caldwell.

"That Mr. R. McE. Dalgliesh be elected a director." Proposed by Mr. J. Cromarty, seconded by Mr. C. E. Shepherd.

"That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be re-elected auditors of the company at an annual remuneration of $600." Proposed by Mr. A. K. Craddock, seconded by Rev. C. N. Caldwell.

"That a sum not exceeding ten percent of the total amount of the annual salaries of the foreign staff of the company, be placed at the disposal of the directors for distribution by them at their discretion to the members of the foreign staff. Proposed by Mr. R. H. Gaskin, seconded by Captain Lowe.

A vote of thanks was then tendered by the meeting to the chairman and Major Trueman for their services.

Kapala Islands Estates, Ltd. Meeting

The seventh annual general meeting of the Kapala Islands Estates, Ltd., was held yesterday afterday. The total number of shares represented was 110,275. Mr. G. Grayrigge presided and was supported by Mr. A. W. Burkill, E. S. Kadoorie, directors and Mr. E. A. Prince, secretary.

The chairman's speech:

Gentlemen.—The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I shall be glad if you will as usual kindly take them as having been read.

The report gives you as concisely as possible all the necessary details of the running of the estate and on comparing the result attained this year with last year's figures, I think you will agree with me that the estate has shown a steady improvement. Since the last report, the producing area has been increased by 107 acres, but the total planted area was reduced by 30 acres. This area was abandoned owing to the unsatisfactory lie of the land and the poorness of the soil. At the end of the year the producing area was 739 acres but this area has now been increased to 803 acres by the inclusion of 64 acres at the beginning of the current year. Although we have ample reserves, no extensions were undertaken owing to the shortage of labor, and capital, and none are provided for in this year's estimates.

The actual production of rubber was 153,262 lbs. being 1,738 lbs. short of the estimate. Although the estimate was not attained, cost of production shows a reduction of 2d. per lb. This may be considered very satisfactory and the reduction would have been greater still had there not been a new item, loss on rice, of 1.69d. per lb. This item appears in the accounts of practically all estates as it is generally considered preferable to sell rice to the coolies at less than its present enormous cost rather than raise the wages. In the case of the Kapala Estate, there is no choice as the contracts with the indentured Javanese coolies bind the estate to supply rice to them at a fixed price.

Lalang, which has given so much trouble in former years has, I am pleased to say, been completely eradicated. At the end of the year the whole planted area was in a clean weeded condition, the expenditure for the year under this heading being 47 cents per acre per month against 71 cents per acre per month for the previous year. The estate is remarkably free from diseases and only 32 trees were removed during the year.

The position in respect of labor was not at all satisfactory and during the early part of this year the estate suffered severely from an epidemic of influenza. Practically the whole force was ill and tapping was almost entirely stopped for a few days and was seriously affected for a much longer period. I regret to say that 62 deaths occurred, largely among the tappers, which left the force insufficient to tap all the tasks. New coolies were sent for at once and we were fortunate in being able to obtain about 50 early in April. The estimate for this year's output may have to be revised but there appears to be good grounds for hoping that the full amount may yet be obtained.

With regard to the accounts, when I addressed you last year I informed you that we were consulting our Auditors with a view of having the Dutch accounts shown in Straits currency. We have now been advised that this cannot be done as it is practically impossible to convert expenditure for the previous years at exchange on any particular date or at an average rate.

You will notice in the profit and loss account for the Kapala Islands Estates an amount of Tls. 28,347.20 written off the property account. Our auditors recommended, in order that our holdings in the Dutch company should agree with the share capital of the Dutch company, that this amount be written off. This reduces our holdings in the Dutch company to Tls. 269,592.12 which is the amount of the capital as shown in the Dutch company's balance sheet.

The profit for the year's working of the Dutch company is Tls. 7,372.30 which, deducted from the amount of Tls. 24,984.71, leaves a balance of Tls. 17,612.41 standing to the debit of this account. The amount due to the Kapala Islands Estates, Ltd. by the Dutch company is Tls. 71,286.56. Our overdraft at the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank at the end of the year stood at Tls. 102,363.59. In order to pay for the new coolies who arrived to replace those lost during the influenza epidemic, it has been necessary to increase the overdraft to Tls. 107,744.54. The amount is still kindly guaranteed by Mr. Kadoorie but as this gentleman will be leaving shortly, the directors are now considering a scheme which will relieve Mr. Kadoorie of the responsibility of guaranteeing the overdraft.

We have made two forward sales, one for two tons per month for the whole of 1920 at 85 cents per pound and the other for two tons per month for the same period at $1.10 per pound.

In order to comply with the new Order in Council, the general managership and secretaryship of the company was transferred to Messrs. A. R. Burkill and Sons, and their representative will be shortly visiting the company's property. Before concluding, I would like to take this opportunity of recording the directors' appreciation of the work done by the late secretaries and general managers, Messrs. Meyer and Measor, and also by the Straits agents and the estate managers.

I now propose the first resolution "That the report and accounts for the year ended December 31, 1919, as printed and circulted be passed. This is seconded by Mr Burkill but before putting this resolution to the meeting, I shall be pleased to do my best to answer any questions any shareholders may wish to ask.

No questions being asked, the following resolutions were passed:

"That the report and accounts for the year ended December 31, 1919, as printed and circulated be passed."

Proposed by Mr. G. Grayrigge, seconded by Mr. A. W. Burkill.

"That Mr. E. S. Kadoorie be re-elected a director of the company."

Proposed by Mr. G. Grayrigge, seconded by Mr. E. A. Prince.

"That the appointment of Mr. A. W. Burkill as a director of the company be confirmed."

Proposed by Mr. G. Grayrigge, seconded by Mr. E. Loureiro.

"That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be re-elected auditors to the company at an annual remuneration of Tls. 300 for Shanghai and Singapore."

Proposed by Mr. J. Leon, seconded by Mr. G. J. W. Morgan.

2.—Monday morning, at 8 o'clock, a sung Communion Mass.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have prescribed Castoria in families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

DUMPING PLEA IN GREAT BRITAIN

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 25.—The report of the Committee on the condition and possibilities of non-ferrous mining in the United Kingdom on which Sir Lionel Phillips served prior to his visit to South Africa in November last, recommends the centralisation in one organisation of departmental duties relating to non-ferrous mining. The report urges that this organisation should immediately undertake geological and statistical work; it also recommends the adoption of the 1914 Commission's proposals relative to the health and safety of workers in mines and the compulsory deposit with the department of mines of surface and underground plans of all mines on the lines of the South African practice, with regard to which Sir Lionel Phillips and Major Trevor gave very valuable evidence.

The report further suggests that the above-mentioned organisation should undertake "certain functions which in the Dominions are regarded as falling within the scope of Government, although never so regarded in the United Kingdom," for instance, advice regarding development and also improvement of existing methods. The most important recommendation is that the Government should take powers, analogous to those wielded by the Dominions Governments, to extend financial assistance to the mines in order to enable them to tide over difficulties and undertake approved exploration development.

MINISTERS NAMED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 28.—The Government is submitting Bills to the House of Representatives, asking for the ratification of the appointments of Mr. Liu Chung-chieh as Minister to Madrid and of Mr. Wang Chi-tseng as Minister to Mexico and Cuba.

Mr. Charles R. Crane, the new American Minister, who passed through Shanghai this week on his way to Peking, and Mrs. Crane will return next Wednesday, according to a message received from the Minister yesterday by Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General.

While in Shanghai Mr. and Mrs. Crane accepted an invitation to attend the launching next Friday of the Mandarin, the first of a quartet of American shipping board boats being build at the Kiangnan yards to take the water. These are the first shipping board boats that have been built in China.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane will leave Peking Tuesday morning and are due to arrive in Shanghai the following evening.

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, May 28.—Mr. Charles R. Crane and Mrs. Crane arrived in Peking yesterday evening, and were met at the station by a number of members of the American community. There was a guard of honor at the station.

Mr. Crane will be installed in the Minister's residence today.

Dr. Tenney has undertaken to postpone his travel program and to remain at the disposition of the new Minister.

Credentials Of New British Minister Go To White House

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, May 26.—Sir Auckland Geddes, the new British Ambassador to the United States, presents his credentials to President Wilson today, thereby re-establishing, after many months, personal relations between the British representative and the White House.

University of Nanking

Nanking, May 27.—Hon. Chas. R. Crane, the new American Minister to China, en route to Peking, was here yesterday. In the morning he and Mrs. Crane paid a visit to the university. President J. E. Williams led him to see the library, the classrooms, and the chapel, and the new buildings which are nearing completion. It is the second visit of Mr. Crane to the university. One year and half ago, he visited the university and addressed the students on "The Student in the Far East."

Cotton Market

Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows in their report dated May 29:

China Cotton.—During the past week the cotton market has been uneventful but with a rather firm undertone in a general way and with a gradual stiffening of the quotations an advance of some five mace from the low level has been attained.

Mills continue to purchase certain grades of the raw staple in fair quantities and the preference for stipulated staples has been responsible for the general firm tone both for spot and future. Other qualities are, however, more or less neglected and so long as available stocks are a drug on the market, these unpopular grades will be a deterrent factor from a bullish standpoint.

On the whole we continue to see little or no inducement to take the "Bull" side of the market but no precipitate decline is likely to occur until the crop is well under way. While the technical position of the market may offer opportunities for occasional scalping operations, the progress of the crop will continue to be the chief basis for important price changes.

Extracts Of Correspondence

Kiangsu Province, May 24.—Planting progresses favorably, although the weather for the past few days has been cold and rainy. A large proportion of the crop is above ground and the stands are good.

Chekiang Province, May 23.—The weather has been generally favorable to crop preparations. Planting well under way.

Yangtsze Valley, May 22.—We have had ideal weather for planting and seasonable rains for germination of the seeds.

Shensi and Shansi Provinces, May 22.—Weather conditions in these territories up to this time could hardly have been more favorable.

Shantung Province, May 21.—In this section the crop is pretty well planted, a little already up We had fine rains and with the present ideal weather, we should get a good stand.

Chihli Province, May 24.—The long looked for rain has at last made its appearance. The downpour lasted for three hours and has temporarily relieved conditions. It has to be borne in mind that there is very little moisture deep in the ground and the crop will need good showers at regular intervals.

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co. write as follows in their report.

China Cotton.—We have had another week of narrow market, the general range of prices being about 1 or 2 mace above that of last week with the exception of a certain grade of Cotton which has gone up 5 mace, and as far as operations are concerned only a few transactions, in small quantities, changed hands amongst speculators. Business may practically be said to be at a standstill, as operators have no decided opinion and do not show any anxiety to operate owing to the uncertain state of the yarn market. The actual condition of affairs may remain thus for some little time, until the development of the new crop is more definitely ascertained and the outlook of the present yarn market be more favorably reported on.

However it may be of interest to note that the existing balance of stocked cotton at present is about 20 percent and that only forward transactions, in small lots, have been put through. Tone of the market, steady.

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION

No. 2715.

SHANGHAI MUNICIPAL COUNCIL 6 PER CENT. STERLING LOAN, 1920.

Amount £750,000

Price of Issue £100 per cent.

UNDER the authority of Resolution VII passed at the Annual Meeting of Ratepayers on April 7, 1920, the Council hereby invites applications for Bearer Debentures (with coupons attached) in the 6 percent. Sterling Loan of 1920, which is issued on the following terms:—

(1) Debentures to Bearer, with Sterling interest coupons attached, will be issued at £100 percent in denominations of £1,000, £500, £100 and £50.

(2) The Debentures of this issue will bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum, payable on June 30 and December 31 in each year by sterling demand draft on London at par, or in silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's Shanghai current demand buying rate on London on date of presentation of the relative coupon. The first payment of interest will be made on December 31, 1920.

(3) Applications, accompanied by payment in full, will be received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, on and after May 1, up to and including June 30, 1920, the Council reserving to itself the right of closing the subscription lists on any day previous to June 30, 1920, by Notification in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai.

(4) Payment on application will be accepted in Silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's current selling T.T. rate on London and will bear interest from date of payment, or in Sterling by T.T. or Demand Draft on London. Interest on payments made in Sterling will only accrue from the date on which the relative remittances are received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, London.

The cost of all telegrams involved through payment by Sterling T.T. shall be paid by the applicant.

Payment will be acknowledged by Banker's Receipt pending issue of the Debentures.

In the event of any applicant not being allotted the full amount applied for, the amount over-applied for will be repaid in full, plus interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum from the date payment was received in Shanghai or London to the due date of repayment in Shanghai, as notified to the applicant by special notice from the Council.

(5) The Loan will be redeemed at par on June 30, 1950, but may be redeemed by the Council in whole or in part on June 30, 1930, and/or on any subsequent date or dates on which the half-yearly interest is payable, subject to the Council giving six calendar months' notice in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai. In the event of any partial redemption of the loan the numbers of the Debentures to be redeemed will be decided by drawing. The numbers of such drawn Debentures will be notified in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai not less than three months prior to the date of repayment.

Application forms can be obtained on and after May 1, from the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, or from the Treasurer and Comptroller, Finance Department, 24B Kiangse Road, to whom all enquiries should be addressed.

Important Notice

My late grandfather, Mr. Chuan Sien, (筠仙公) had, in the thirteenth year of Kwang Shu, bought twenty shares of the Chen Chi Woo Insurance Co., (仁濟和保險公司) Nos. 16140/59, with an Interest Book. On the 5th day of 7th moon of the Kee Vee year (己未), my servant, Yue Tseng Yung, was ordered and brought with him the said share certificates, by traveling in the train from Changsha to Hankow, for drawing interest. While he was at Li-lu in the night, the said certificates were stolen and immediately after the case was reported to the Railway Station for recovery, without trace.

Having requested the Magistrate and Chamber of Commerce jointly the said Insurance Company, Shanghai, was advised of the loss and to issue new Certificates.

I hereby further declare the nullification of the original, both in Chinese and Foreign Newspapers of Shanghai and Hankow.

America's Foreign Trade Proposals

IT is evident, from a special cablegram to The Japan Advertiser dated May 16, that the Foreign Trade Convention in San Francisco, which, it will be recalled was attended by a strong delegation from Shanghai, accomplished a vast amount of useful and important work in the short three days' session.

Among the resolutions adopted was one which declared it to be the sense of the convention that American companies in China be required to operate under American laws, and that present American laws be so altered as to give American corporations operating under them, the same opportunities as are enjoyed by the corporations of other nations against which the Americans must compete when seeking the commerce of China.

This resolution beyond doubt is an outgrowth of the recent British Order in Council affecting so-called China companies. And Congress because of the obvious fairness of the appeal and because of the power and influence of the convention in which it originated, is bound to view the proposed legislation with favor.

It is interesting to note also that the convention was unanimously in favor of the immediate adoption of the Treaty of Peace and League of Nations Covenant so long as fundamental American principles and prerogatives are safeguarded. And Europe recently has signified its assent to these reservations. This being so we may confidently count on eventual ratification along the lines indicated.

A declaration of the principles on which America's foreign trade is to be conducted and expanded was introduced by James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation and chairman of the convention, and this also was adopted by the convention.

Among other principles set forth is one urging that American enterprises abroad shall be entitled to the same means of protection from foreign governments as the enterprises of other nations receive in the United States from the American Government; another points out that the United States, as a creditor nation, should afford other nations every reasonable opportunity to sell their products to America, especially raw materials which can be imported without detriment to the existing industries of the United States.

Others propose that proper measures be devised to encourage manufacturers and producers to the full employment of their facilities; that production be increased to the maximum to restore normal economic conditions in the United States and abroad; that greater quantities of American merchandise be shipped abroad and handled by American companies; that the American merchant marine revert as soon as possible entirely to private ownership and private operation; that marine insurance be carried on all private shipping enterprises; that additional cable facilities and extensive improvements in the communications services to foreign countries are imperatively needed to relieve unbearable conditions in regard to communications, which greatly increase the cost and risk of doing business abroad; that the Post Office Department take steps to extend the facilities of the international parcel post service; that legislation be enacted that will attract ambitious young men into the service of American companies doing business in foreign lands.

We are glad to note that there is not a single proposal in the list that militates against the welfare and prosperity of any other nation.

How Stars Are Born

BY GEORGE FINDLAY

The collision of two dead suns was, until recently, the most plausible explanation of a new star's sudden and brilliant advent in the sky.

In the light of more up-to-date knowledge of these strange flowers that bloom in the "infinite meadows of heaven," however, another theory as to their origin, evolved in the past two or three years, is likely to supplant the older one.

Astronomers have very good reason for believing that there are, besides dead stars, many dark, gaseous nebulae of considerable extent scattered througout space. The possibility of a star wandering into one of these is much greater than that of two stars crashing together.

To make this clear, it need only be stated that a nebula stretching to the orbit of the planet Neptune would offer a target 2½ millions of times greater than our sun.

It must be understood that the possibility of collision between two stars is very small indeed. Imagine a projectile fired with the velocity necessary to leave the nearest star. Traveling completely at random, its chance of hitting our sun would be one in five thousand billions!

Or, suppose the star nearest our sun to be suddenly blown into five thousand million fragments. There would still be a million chances to one that our sun would escape being hit!

It is now believed that the blazing forth of a new star is occasioned by a dark, massive body dashing into a non-luminous nebula.

What happens then is analogous to the case of a meteor falling through the earth's atmosphere, the friction caused by its rapid motion giving rise to intense heat, which raises the body to incandescence.

Spectroscopic evidence collected regarding the new star which in 1918 burst forth in the constellation Aquila has established this theory on a firm basis. It accounts particularly for the remarkable increase in brilliance observed during the first few days of the object's appearance.

Enormous masses of glowing hydrogen gas are known to be associated with these new stars. The gradual diminution in their brightness may be due to this gaseous mantle obscuring the central incandescence.

Also, it would appear that the solid materials of which the dark star was composed are more than vaporised by the intense heat of the impact, and are transmuted largely into the most elementary atoms. This is a point which has still to be cleared up.

One new star, at any rate, has been known to assume the form of a planetary nebula; that is, it became a faintly glowing sphere of gas with a somewhat brighter nucleus. Thus it may be that the birth of a new star may lead to the regeneration of words.

Why Freedom Disappears

BY WILL DURANT
(Writer and Lecturer)

In a sense, freedom in politics and speech is an unusual condition, the protege of forces which operate sporadically and transiently, and therefore a frequent casualty in the course of historical development. Voltaire and Montesquieu were amazed at the freedom of speech, press, and worship which they found in England. They came from a country in which the power of the king was absolute, to a country whose king had been reduced, by an alliance of merchants and nobles, to an ornamental symbol of imperial unity and a convenient instrument of national hypnotism. Returning to France, they spent a wealth of superlatives on English freedom. "How I love the boldness of the English!" exclaimed Voltaire; "how I admire men who say what they think!" "England is at this moment," said Montesquieu, "possessed of more freedom than any other nation in the world." Yet in this same England, toward the end of that same eighteenth century, freedom of speech was destroyed almost to the roots. Thomas Paine was prosecuted for printing "The Rights of Man;" the issue was confiscated; wherever two or three men gathered together to discuss the French Revolution spies were present; a minister of the gospel was sent to jail for fourteen years for saying that he sympathised with the Revolution; in Edinburgh anybody suspected of liberal ideas was arrested and sentenced, irrespective of law. "Send me the prisoners and I will find the law," said one of the judges. Radicals were deported to Botany Bay for periods up to sixteen years; Coleridge, Southey, and Wordsworth were cowed into retractions.

Now why had freedom disappeared? Largely because the security of the government had disappeared, threatened by the international overflow of the revolutionary spirit. It is a hobby of all governments, as of all individuals, that they relish their own permanence; and when they are in danger they do not handicap themselves with moral scruples or legal technicalities. Freedom is a luxury which comes only when governments are very powerful, or when they are very weak.

This first factor in freedom—the security of the existing political structure—has been combined, in England and America, with geographical immunity from international disturbance. In the latter country other factors have had a special prominence. There was, first in importance, free land. When a man might have an acre for squatting on it, and undeveloped communication made almost every farm an economic sovereignty, life was so free that liberty was not discussed. Men had personality, because they owned their tools of production and controlled the conditions under which they worked. It was men whose independence of character and freedom of behavior were thus rooted in the soil they tilled that put into the Presidential chair the founder of the Democratic party, the great antagonist of the Alien and Sedition acts, the man who said that a government that could not be criticised was a government that could not be trusted. And it was out of these conditions that there developed not only the American tradition of liberty, but the American type of character, which, at least when depicted by Americans, specialises in vigorous independence of thought and action. It was out of this background that there emerged the men of initiative, courage, and enterprise who supplied America with its famous captains of industry; and on the other side it was among men so nurtured that the Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor found members sturdy enough to fight with some success the most powerful industrial combinations which history has ever seen. These latter men, for the most part, were skilled laborers; and as such they had in them the pride which props up personality and makes for freedom. And even for unskilled labor, in those days, "free contract" had some freedom in it, for the dissatisfied worker could ground his tools and go off to the unexhausted land of the West. Finally, open competition was the rule of the industrial game in almost every phase. And where competition is open, freedom flourishes.

All these conditions have passed away. Security of political structure is gone, isolation is gone, free land is gone, free competition is gone, individual ownership of the tools of production is gone, and soon skilled labor will be gone too. The farmer has lost his independence, and begins to feel the vise in which the middleman is squeezing him. The editor who owns his newspaper and expresses his own views is a vestigial remnant now, when a thousand sheets tell the same lie in the same way on the same day, for various rewards. The large-scale monopoly has swallowed up the captain of industry; and even the employer of hundreds knows that he is at the mercy of financiers. The shopkeeper is in the toils of the distributers; the clerks become the proletariat of the pen, the teachers desert to the factories, and the whole lower middle class is being submerged in the rising costs of existence.

But the basic fact in the situation is the rapid disappearance of the man who owned his own tools and controlled the conditions of his own work. Freedom cannot long survive in a system in which an ever decreasing proportion of men control access to the means of production for an ever increasing proportion of producers. Freedom stands on personality; and personality is bound up with control of the conditions of one's work, so that one may express himself in his product. This sense of personality has decayed throughout the last one hundred years because ever more and more men have lost the ownership of their tools and the control over their own working conditions. The last stage in the process is the displacement of their painfully-acquired skill.

Where there is skill, there personality and independence survive despite the handicap of other conditions. To have special ability, to show some exceptional quality in workmanship, stamps one with character, and makes one stand out as human in a welter of mechanical routine. Such a man does not lend himself readily to indoctrination and unquestioning subordination. The unskilled worker is more docile. The soul starves on routine, and repetition dulls the edge of thought; so that at last the worker is almost as mechanical as his machine. Hence, the ideal of the business man is now a wage-labor force which shall consist entirely of unskilled workers. To this end inventors improve machinery; and "scientific" management, by time-and-motion study, breaks up the processes of skill into components which in severalty can be taught to the dullest soul. The personnel of the American factory tends ever more and more toward the impersonal. This was made clear long since by Professor Hoxie and Carleton Parker.

Now, to men so reduced to mechanism, liberty is a meaningless word. As America fills up, year by year, with men made brutal by such routine, or men deliberately imported because already dulled by foreign circumstance, the very bottom falls out of the American tradition of liberty. For liberty as a political concept has no vitality where there is no liberty in economic life. We cannot make a nation of Jeffersons out of a slum of slaves. We must change the current of our industrial development, or we must stop our talk about political liberty.

This, then, is why freedom disappears from American politics—simply because it has disappeared from American economic life. Our industrial leaders are knowingly filling their factories with men capable of violence but not of freedom. We are passing back from contract to status, from interfluent classes to closed castes; and where caste and status delimit life, liberty is the prerogative of a clique rather than the possession of a nation. The slave-drivers are determined to destroy even the forms of liberty; for they have set their eyes on the Egyptian model, and they feel that the processes even of political liberty will be a disintegrating force in the structure which they propose to build. There will be no need for freedom in a world in which a few men will undertake to decide everything.

In short, a small number of powerful and cultureless men are bringing about, by violence and bloodshed and illegality of every kind, a revolution in America: the rapid replacement of our nineteenth-century structure of freedom of work, thought, and speech by a system in which a handful of men with open brutality rule millions of men reduced to open slavery. For this end, labor organisations must be broken, whether by provoking strikes when the workers are weak and the company is ahead with its orders, or by using the military power of the government to enforce submission to reduced standards of life. For this end, all sincere political opposition must be eliminated, even if the Constitution must, for this purpose, be overridden and broken into fragments. The only parties who many share in the game of legislation must be those who accept the situation with grace, and promise their cooperation to maintain it. And if any men, agitated by some sentimental preference for "our ancient liberties," or other nonsense of that kind, should endeavor to arouse his fellows to the reality that is growing up about them and upon them, he will find every newspaper in the land proving to a docile public that he is disloyal to the government, and is advocating the nationalisation of women.

Decisions Of The French Socialists

The French Socialist Party, at its national congress held at Strasburg on February 25-29, adopted the following resolution favoring the calling of a new Internationale, by a vote of 2,299 to 1,621 for immediate adhesion to the Third, or Moscow, Internationale. The congress had previously voted, 4,330 to 337, to leave the Second Internationale. The resolution on domestic policy was adopted by a show of hands.

FOREIGN POLICY

The war which it sought to avoid seduced the Second Internationale, which had been founded at the Congress of Paris in 1889 on the principle of the class struggle, from the task of socialist organisation and education to which it was dedicated.

The Second Internationale, like humanity itself, whose highest expression it was, has been materially and morally shattered by the war. Some of its national sections have been weakened still further by sharing power with the bourgeoisie—a clear violation of the principles upon which it was founded.

The Socialist Party [of France] declares that this Internationale, as now composed, has ceased to meet the revolutionary situation now existing in most countries. A new Internationale of action is required. Moreover, the Second Internationale now includes only a fraction of the socialist workers of the world.

The Third Internationale, formed at Moscow in March, 1919, has arisen in opposition to it, and declares for the integral program of the class struggle as formulated in the Communist Manifesto and in the Amsterdam Resolution of 1904, essential charters of any Socialist movement. Beside the majority of the Russian Socialists, of Italy, Norway, Servia, and Rumania, and sections of the Socialists of Sweden, Denmark, Bulgaria, Hungary, America and England have joined the new Internationale.

Three important organisations have left the Second Internationale, the Swiss Socialist Party, the Socialist Party of the United States, and the Independent Socialist Party of Germany. The latter, at its Congress in December, 1919, decided to negotiate with the revolutionary socialist groups of Western Europe and to present itself to the Third Internationale with the bloc thus formed. If it did not succeed in forming such a bloc, it would nevertheless adhere to the Third Internationale.

The French Socialist Party, noting the decision of the German Independents who, during the war and after the armistice, have remained worthy of the revolutionary and internationalist tradition of the German proletariat, feels that it can no longer remain in an organisation wherein Germany is represented only by Socialists who were accomplices of the Kaiser and of the counter-revolutionary maneuvers of Scheidemann and Noske.

Furthermore it considers that the present dispersion of the working-class forces of the world cannot continue without danger for the workers' revolution. Since the attempts made at Berne and Lucerne to revive the Second Internationale with the help of the radical elements of that organisation seem henceforth destined to complete failure, it declares that a new grouping of the revolutionary socialist forces true to the traditional principles of international socialism is an urgent duty.

The capitalist governments of the Entente have made it impossible to know in detail or to render a complete judgment upon the entire work and action of the Russian revolution. But the French Socialist Party, sympathetic with all movements for working-class emancipation, considers that none of the fundamental declarations of the Moscow Internationale is in contradiction with the essential principles of socialism as they have been defined by the international congresses, that the thesis of the "dictatorship of the proletariat," in so far as it is destined to assure the transition from capitalist society to the socialist regime, is the basis of every revolutionary conception, and that the institution of Workers' and Peasants' Councils, as experience has shown, may be utilised by the working class in taking power.

But it considers that the socialist parties of Western and Central Europe, in their revolutionary effort for the social transformation which is coming about in all the countries of advanced industrial development, should act in full accord with the working-class organisms already existing—labor unions and co-operatives—and that adaptation of these organisms to the special economic circumstances should be one of the essential instruments of that transformation.

Consequently, it declares that these socialist parties and the parties of the Third Internationale should undertake joint negotiations.

It considers that the parties which seek a new grouping should first of all condemn any collaboration of any sort with the bourgeoisie, and especially cabinet coalitions such as existed during the war and after the war in most European countries.

The French Socialist Party adheres whole-heartedly to the suggestion of the German Independents, and affirms its will to work for the reconstitution of the world unity of socialism, by fusion between all the elements of the Second Internationale which have remained faithful to the principles of the class struggle, and the groups forming the Third Internationale.

It proclaims its desire both to manifest active sympathy for the Russian revolution, and to remain close to the efforts of the working classes of the great industrial countries, especially England and America, in their special historic and economic conditions.

In order to end the unfortunate situation caused by the temporary dispersion of the Internationale, this Congress, resolves upon immediate action, instructs the Executive Committee of the party, while maintaining contact with the national sections of the western parties, to enter into negotiations immediately with the proper organs of the Third Internationale and, in accord with the German Independents, the Swiss, and the Italian parties, to prepare a conference with a view to grouping with the parties forming the Third Internationale all parties resolved to maintain their action upon the basis of the traditional principles of socialism.

DOMESTIC POLICY

The Socialist Party declares that now more than ever before its national action should be a function of the international action of world socialism. It reasserts its determination to strive, in its own country, for the organisation of the workers into a class party for the conquest of power with the intention of proceeding, with the force of the enfranchised working class, to the socialisation of all the instruments of production and exchange, the common purpose of sincere socialists the world around. . . . .

In this spirit the party calls attention to the menace to the nation caused by the policy pursued by the last Ministry [Clemenceau] and continued by the present [Millerand]. It denounces the absurd legend against which history will protest, that an incoherent individual incapable of creative action was responsible for a victory which was in fact due solely to the multiplied sacrifice of French soldiers and to the irresistible force of foreign revolutions, all born of the Russian revolution.

It notes the deplorable results of this policy which it has so many times denounced, and which, more than a year after the armistice, is still incapable of establishing definite peace. It notes, too, the failure of the League of Nations, and of the fraudulent application of the principle of nationality. It again denounces the crimes inflicted by the capitalist states of the Entente upon the peoples, and the more or less disguised hostilities against the Socialist Republic of Russia, whose magnificent victories it salutes.

The Socialist Party, political expression of the workers of France, is in duty bound to consider the economic and financial situation which is daily growing worse. It foresaw all the present difficulties, just as it forewarned that a reactionary parliamentary majority would impose unjust burdens upon the mass of the workers, would increase indirect taxes, and would refuse to strike at acquired wealth and war profiteers. . . .

More than ever it demands:

Direct taxes attacking swollen revenues and capital, based upon the conscription of wealth, going as far as total restitution by war profiteers, thieves of the nation;

Socialisation of capitalist monopolies;

Organisation of transportation by the state under the direction of responsible experts;

Administration by municipalities of real estate and new building, bringing the necessary energy to the solution of the housing crisis.

The Congress instructs its representatives in the Chamber of Deputies and in the municipal councils to support socialist solutions vigorously and uncompromisingly, and to appeal by incessant propaganda to the people who should understand that the general situation of the country is becoming more and more revolutionary.

The party denounces to the workers, who by their sacrifice assured the national defense, the attitude of the bourgeoisie, more and more avid, brutal, and selfish in its determination to maintain the de facto dictatorship which assures its control.

The 1,600,000 dead, whose sacrifice was to have ushered in a new era of justice among the peoples and of fraternity among the citizens of France, fell in vain. There is no victory except for capitalism, piling up its profits.

The Socialist Party appeals to the workers to organise in every field in order to develop their power and to hasten, by all methods, the coming of the revolution.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark)

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

The Gentle Art Of Keeping Husbands

Say what, you will, the husband question is the one that eternally interests women. Other questions come and go, are answered or cease to trouble, but that goes on forever. As long as there is in the world that triangle, man, woman, and marriage, women are going to keep interested in what other women say about husbands, in how those other women manage those husbands, in the failures and successes that supervene upon the management.

The husband question is the one that makes vital Corra Harris's latest novel, "Happily Married" (George H. Doran Company).

"The test of a woman's quality is not how well she loves her husband. Almost any kind of a wife can do that. But it is how she conducts herself when she discovers that he is still 'Pep' to some one else who is evidently and offensively of her own sex and kind."

Mrs. Madden has just discovered that her husband is "Pep" to another woman. Moreover, this other woman is the dangerous siren of Sulgrave, Ellen Skipwith, imported into the town some years ago by Skipwith, who had until that day been "the beloved vagabond of Sulgrave society, a bachelor, who had a large fortune, little wit, good manners, and a generous disposition, one of the most convenient men Sulgrave ever produced." Departing on a vacation, a fishing trip, he had returned with Mrs. Skipwith. "She was small, petite. She had red hair, a great deal of it, and the stuff was naturally curling. She wore it high on her head like a coiled torch. Her eyes were entrancingly blue, baby eyes, that stared into the coolly appraising face of Sulgrave with engaging candor. Her mouth was not a mouth at all except from necessity. Otherwise it was a tremulous, pink, sweet note in a fair countenance. And her nose was as perfect as if she had had it in answer to a prayer Only a man could love such a woman. And there were a great many women in Sulgrave, silent, vigilant, thoughtful women."

There was nothing the matter with Mrs. Madden's own appearance except that she made nothing of it. She was "a wife who performed every duty with scrupulous care and a mother who did her duty the same way." She always wore the wrong kind of hat, and her mirror was a negligible thing with her. A large, calm, Junolike woman, with pale-gold hair. A woman, after all, with possibilities.

There are two familiar ways to a woman of meeting the situation which Mrs. Madden was now facing. "If she has her cry out, then springs like a tearful phenix from her own ashes to adorn herself and make herself charming, you may know that she has either resolved to pay him off with a flirtation of her own, or she is planning to compete with that other woman in the open market for her husband. She will fail because what attracts a man to the other woman never attracts him to his wife.

"If, on the other hand, she paces the floor, if her hair falls down in the very anguish of her woe, if she pauses now and then to consider this wreck of herself in the mirror, if she adds to the image there by wringing her hands and whispering lest the walls hear her, 'O God! that I should endure this, the mother of his children!' then you may know that she will presently fling herself not on the bed but across it and she will weep aloud, so loud that he is bound to hear her when he comes in and finds the door locked. Every woman's instinct under these circumstances is to prove her sorrow by acting it. But it is better, far better, not to do so."

Mrs. Madden follows neither of these well-trodden ways. In fact, for a while, she does nothing. But she thinks. And she treats her husband, Pelham, with a cool and delicate reserve that he can not quite define, but which puzzles him. He has always known just what she would do and what she would say. For the moment she is somehow different.

Yet Mary Madden does not yet know what to do. It was her nature not to make scenes, not to talk of herself or her troubles. "She did not know how to deal with such a woman as Mrs. Skipwith. She felt that she lacked right ordnance for this kind of warfare, and she did not know what to do next."

Pelham feels injured yet guilty. Resentful and innocent. "After all, he had never even kissed the woman." But he is renewing his youth, he yearns again.

It is Rachel Warren, society reporter on The Sentinel, who defines Ellen Skipwith to Mary. A piker Rachel calls her. But Mary does not know what a piker is.

"Ellen Skipwith is one. She belongs to the virtuous light lady class. Never goes wrong. Always has more good deeds to her credit than the best woman in town. Manages to dispose of her husband without divorcing him and without a scandal. The men like her, defend her. She is the woman who trims another woman's husband of his idealistic sentimentalities, stirs his romantic forces while his wife keeps the home and looks after his comfort. She is the more dangerous because he knows and she knows that she will never go the limit. So he feels safe, so she gets him, his thoughts, his saddest, whitest dreams—and whatever she wants. I say she is a piker because she plays on the sly for small stakes and she never cares what her little piker game costs the other woman."

It is Mrs. Madden's mother who gives her the guiding sign, and launches her upon the road of victory.

"'You make a cult of your children, of your home, of your husband, but never of yourself. A woman should do that first, last, and all the time. But I never could make you see.'

"'See what, Mother?'

"'That a woman can not, can not make a drudge of herself, scrubbing just her virtues all the time without paying the price. Give more attention to yourself Neglect something. Leave the children alone. They are morbidly well brought up. Find an interest in your own life as Pelham has in the bank. You know what I mean, Mary. We can not talk about it, but you know.'

And now Mrs. Madden knows what to do, and does it.

The first thing she did was to go every afternoon to her mother's house, where a French dressmaker, swept across the seas by the exigencies of the war, fashioned for her a wardrobe. "The kind of frocks and gowns for Mary that Mrs. Darah had always wanted her to wear." Mrs. Darah is Mary's mother, and a wise and feminine person.

And Mary also throws herself, inconspicuously, into real war-work. She is the sort of woman who does what she does thoroughly. She is the sort who becomes an expert.

Pelham nowadays finds her at work over papers and what not when he comes home. It is a relief to him, for he is thoroughly occupied with Mrs. Skipwith. And yet—

One afternoon he comes back earlier than usual. Mary is busy and merely nods to him. But he is restless. Moreover, he was tired of the casual way in which his coming home was being received of late. Also, Mrs. Skipwith had not been kind. She, too, seemed preoccupied. So he started to stir up something.

"'Mary, where are the children?' he demanded, for it suddenly occurred to him that he had seen nothing of them of late.

"'The children?' she repeated vaguely.

"'Yes, where are they?'

"'I have no idea where they are,' she answered.

"He came in at that, sat down carefully with his eyes fixed on her face. Never before had Mary failed to know all about the children down to the last track they had made, the last deed they had done. He was alarmed not so much for the children. He supposed they would turn up presently, but at this astounding change in Mary.

"'You might look into the nursery,' she suggested, still with the casual air of one who has mislaid something not very important.

"He sat for a moment longer riveted to this horrible thought that Mary was different, not only to himself, but to her children. Then he bolted for the stairs.

"She leaned back, clasped her hands over her head, and smiled. It was the first impish thing she had done in the course of her married life, and she felt singularly refreshed. Some very good people live and die without ever knowing the strictly human pleasure there is in being a little less good. It affords a sense of freedom, as if some imprisoned spirit of you had capered for a moment in the open."

Mary continued to let her spirit caper. She, who had always done the expected thing, never did it. She assumed a new relation toward life. "Men do that constantly. They sell out a business for another business, or they add a new branch to the old one, or they go somewhere else and start again. But women rarely ever show this initiative. Therefore, they become singularly uninteresting as they grow older, more dutiful, and more dependable. This is a frightful mistake because a certain advantage is always taken of the entirely dependable person. The one who inspires a gambling doubt is handled with much more care and consideration.

"Mrs Madden had accomplished this happy uncertainty in the mind of her husband. She noticed how often he approached her now with a studiously interrogative expression. And she made a point of justifying his uncertainty, even in the smallest matters. She knew what he thought she would be doing, and she was never doing it. She knew what he expected her to say on any given subject, and she never said it. She was no longer just a wife. She was some one else in addition, another woman with other interests."

So far Mary Madden had not yet clothed herself in the creations of the French dressmaker. One afternoon Pelham returns home, to find Mary on the point of departure. She is off with a woman friend to Washington where all the State chairmen have been called in relation to work on the Fourth Liberty Bond. Mary, it appears, has been appointed to the Woman's National Committee.

"'You are taking the children, of course,' he suggested smoothly.

"'Mother will keep them. Everything has been arranged. You will have no trouble at all.'

"'How long shall you be away from home?' he asked politely, but adding the word home with intention.

"'I can not tell now. You know how one thing leads to another. I shall almost surely go on to New York.,"

She does. She is away three weeks. Pelham gets telegrams from her, but no letters. Finally a telegram announcing her return on the seven-forty-five.

"Madden was at the station. He saw a tall, smartly tailored woman descend with other passengers from the Pullman coach and he was still watching for his wife when the tall, smartly tailored woman laid her fingers lightly on his arm and said, 'Pelham.'"

Mary, of course. And that is only the beginning. Mary has gowns now, has "lines," and she wears hats that are signed masterpieces. And Mary continues to have a number of interesting and important engagements without considering it necessary to consult Pelham. She goes away at a moment's notice, makes addresses, is complimented and sought. Pelham does not know that he likes it, but he can't help being interested. Mrs. Skipwith has grown exigent and bores him. He shakes himself free of her.

"In December he was called to New York on business. He persuaded Mary to accompany him. He wanted to begin over again, pay her more attention than he could with the children always about and everybody in Sulgrave looking on. She deserved it.

"One day as they were walking briskly through the streaming crowds of Fifth Avenue he said, 'Mary, I am sorry for these people.'

"'Why?' she asked.

"'Well, they may not be married, a lot of them are not, and a lot more may be unhappily married. It's a great thing, the most wonderful thing in the world, to be happily married,' he announced, giving her arm beneath her furs a squeeze—to make sure she caught his exact meaning.

"'I am glad you feel that way about it, Pelham,' she answered serenely.

"But Mrs. Madden believed only from day to day in her husband. She was prepared for the renascence of the Pep bachelor in him. But she was prepared."

A woman's fairy-story, perhaps, but fairy-stories are always true stories. And women are going to find Mrs. Madden singularly attractive—a "model woman."
